

Commuting to New York from West Orange

West Orange is located approximately 15 miles west of Manhattan. Many residents commute daily into the city, most commonly to Midtown or Lower Manhattan. The typical commute into and from Manhattan during the weekday rush hour takes a little over an hour door-to-door. There are buses to the city from a number of locations in West Orange, and if you can drive to a nearby train or bus station, the options increase.

Common commutes used by our residents include:

Option	Description	Need Car?	Best for:	On the Web
DeCamp #33X/66R	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Several express buses in the direction of rush hour, local buses about once an hour rest of the day. • Goes to Port Authority Bus Terminal in New York. • Express bus takes about 40 min to PABT. 	No	Regular schedules, Midtown or lower Manhattan, with no need for a car.	http://www.decamp.com
PATH (Harrison Station)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Frequent, cheap subway service to both Midtown and Lower Manhattan. • Service to World Trade Center and along 6th Ave between Greenwich Village and Midtown. 	Yes	Fastest way to Lower Manhattan; can be fastest to Midtown East (PATH to WTC, then Lexington Ave subway to midtown). Frequent 24-hour service is good for irregular schedules.	http://www.pathrail.com
Community Coach #77	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bus service to Port Authority. • Leaves from the West Orange Arena and a number of other locations in town. • Express bus takes about 40 min to PABT. 	Rt. 10: No Arena: Yes	More frequent service than DeCamp; the Englishtown neighborhood is closer to this bus than the DeCamp bus (generally in walking distance).	http://bit.ly/10nGRUZ
NJ Transit Train	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Train to NY Penn Station on NJ Transit's Morris and Essex line stations. • Nearby stations include Orange, Brick Church, South Orange, Millburn and Maplewood. • Approximately 40 trains/day in each direction. • 25 minutes from Brick Church to Penn Station. 	Yes	Fastest to West and Central Midtown, Orange and Brick Church stations are less than 10 minutes away.	http://www.njtransit.com
NJ Transit Bus #320	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Frequent service to Port Authority from the North Bergen Park & Ride. • About ½ hour drive from West Orange. 	Yes	Fastest to Midtown for those who don't want to be tied to the train schedule.	http://www.njtransit.com